

American Cancer Society benefit

Written by Carroll Melgar

Wednesday, 12 October 2011 11:41

Saks Fifth Avenue in Greenwich and Sisley Paris will host an evening to benefit the American Cancer Society's "Choose You" campaign tonight, Thursday, Oct. 13, from 6:30 to 8:30.

"Choose You" is a movement created by the American Cancer Society that encourages women to put their own health first in the fight against cancer. The movement challenges women to make healthier choices, and supports them in their commitment to eat right, get active, quit smoking and get regular health checks.

Sisley is a national sponsor of the campaign with its All Day All Year product. Saks Fifth Avenue will donate 10% of the evening's sales to the campaign. Admission is free.

The store will be open for shopping and guests may enjoy wine, treats and complimentary makeovers. Guest speakers will include Peg Camp, COO of the American Cancer Society's New England Division, and Dr. Philip J. Miller, cosmetic surgeon and voted among the best doctors in America consistently since 2007 and top doctor of New York. For more information and to RSVP, contact Geri Corrigan at geri_corrigan@s5a.com.